Project 2014-16

Transfer paths between programs in the trades, health and business fields from
Collège Boréal and Collège La Cité

Executive Summary June 2015

Executive summary

This project aimed to build a bridge between programs in the trades, health and business fields from Collège Boréal and Collège La Cité. These institutions share a mutual interest in exploring innovative transfer paths between certain programs, to help students not only acquire technical, technological, practical and theoretical knowledge, but also benefit from expertise and partnerships with the regional industry of each institution, with the ultimate goal of serving Francophone communities in Ontario.

The results of the analysis of various transfer path projects were that some of them proved achievable while others couldn't be established due to a lack of affinity between the programs.

Rigorous work processes were developed and used to determine the relevance and contents of transfer paths between the programs, while focusing on the value added and the creation of conditions that would assure students' success.
