Pathways by Sending Institutions

The following table present information on current transfer pathways in Ontario institutions, juxtaposed against geographical data and 2013/2014 student-transfer flows from sending institutions in order to examine where strong connections exist.

The first column lists all sending institutions. “Sending Institution” holds dual meaning as either a sending partner, (in the form of established sending partnership agreements) and/or as a sending source of transfer students to the receiving institution.

The “Geographical Data” summarizes the regional location of the sending institution’s main campus, the distance (in km) and the travel duration (in hours) from the receiving institution. Branch campus locations have not been considered in this analysis, but will be included in the discussion. Reasonable commutable parameters were considered less than 80 km, or 1 hour commuting time; institutions that fell within this range are highlighted in blue.

The “Pathway Information” (taken from ONCAT/OnTransfer.ca) outlines the number of existing pathways agreements between the sending and receiving institutions. Also noted, is the nature of whether the agreements are “generic” or “specific”. Generic agreements note if the receiving institutions recognize programs from any area of study. Specific agreements note if the partnership agreement is program/discipline-specific.

Cambrian College

Cambrian College is a college of applied arts and technology in Greater Sudbury, Ontario, Canada. Established in 1967, and funded by the province of Ontario, Cambrian has campuses in Sudbury, Espanola and Little Current. For the purposes of this analysis, only the main campus in Sudbury has been used; branch campuses were not considered.

Cambrian works in partnership with school boards, training institutes, universities, and other institutions - locally, nationally and internationally - in order to provide additional educational opportunities and to share expertise and resources. Cambrian's commitment to its many communities is evidenced by the Wabnode Institute, the college's centre for the advancement of First Nations education, and by its status as a leader in meeting the needs of persons with disabilities.

Partnership description:

Number	25 partners
Structure	23 public colleges, 2 First Nations Institutes.
Geographical proximity	College Boreal is the only partner within commutable range (equal to or less than 80km).

Pathway description:

Number	Pathways with generic sending programs	0	240
	Pathways with specific sending programs	240
Generic	No generic pathways (i.e. students from any field area) are enabled transfer to Cambrian College.
Specific	All specific pathways into Cambrian College for students from the discipline areas of Business, Finance, and Administration.

Pathways by Sending Institutions

The following table present information on current transfer pathways in Ontario institutions, juxtaposed against geographical data and 2013/2014 student-transfer flows from sending institutions in order to examine where strong connections exist.

The first column lists all sending institutions. “Sending Institution” holds dual meaning as either a sending partner, (in the form of established sending partnership agreements) and/or as a sending source of transfer students to the receiving institution.

The “Geographical Data” summarizes the regional location of the sending institution’s main campus, the distance (in km) and the travel duration (in hours) from the receiving institution. Branch campus locations have not been considered in this analysis, but will be included in the discussion. Reasonable commutable parameters were considered less than 80 km, or 1 hour commuting time; institutions that fell within this range are highlighted in blue.

The “Pathway Information” (taken from ONCAT/OnTransfer.ca) outlines the number of existing pathways agreements between the sending and receiving institutions. Also noted, is the nature of whether the agreements are “generic” or “specific”. Generic agreements note if the receiving institutions recognize programs from any area of study. Specific agreements note if the partnership agreement is program/discipline-specific.

Pathways by Sending Institutions

The following table present information on current transfer pathways in Ontario institutions, juxtaposed against geographical data and 2013/2014 student-transfer flows from sending institutions in order to examine where strong connections exist.

The first column lists all sending institutions. “Sending Institution” holds dual meaning as either a sending partner, (in the form of established sending partnership agreements) and/or as a sending source of transfer students to the receiving institution.

The “Geographical Data” summarizes the regional location of the sending institution’s main campus, the distance (in km) and the travel duration (in hours) from the receiving institution. Branch campus locations have not been considered in this analysis, but will be included in the discussion. Reasonable commutable parameters were considered less than 80 km, or 1 hour commuting time; institutions that fell within this range are highlighted in blue.

The “Pathway Information” (taken from ONCAT/OnTransfer.ca) outlines the number of existing pathways agreements between the sending and receiving institutions. Also noted, is the nature of whether the agreements are “generic” or “specific”. Generic agreements note if the receiving institutions recognize programs from any area of study. Specific agreements note if the partnership agreement is program/discipline-specific.

Pathways by Sending Institutions

The following table present information on current transfer pathways in Ontario institutions, juxtaposed against geographical data and 2013/2014 student-transfer flows from sending institutions in order to examine where strong connections exist.

The first column lists all sending institutions. “Sending Institution” holds dual meaning as either a sending partner, (in the form of established sending partnership agreements) and/or as a sending source of transfer students to the receiving institution.

The “Geographical Data” summarizes the regional location of the sending institution’s main campus, the distance (in km) and the travel duration (in hours) from the receiving institution. Branch campus locations have not been considered in this analysis, but will be included in the discussion. Reasonable commutable parameters were considered less than 80 km, or 1 hour commuting time; institutions that fell within this range are highlighted in blue.

The “Pathway Information” (taken from ONCAT/OnTransfer.ca) outlines the number of existing pathways agreements between the sending and receiving institutions. Also noted, is the nature of whether the agreements are “generic” or “specific”. Generic agreements note if the receiving institutions recognize programs from any area of study. Specific agreements note if the partnership agreement is program/discipline-specific.

Partnership description:

Number	26
Structure	25 public colleges; 1 First Nations institute.
Geographical proximity	Oshki-Pimache-o-win Education & Training Institute is the only partner that is within commutable range. (>80 km).

Pathway description:

Number	Pathways with generic sending programs	0	481
	Pathways with specific sending programs	481
Generic	No generic pathways are set up for transfer students with “any program background” to Confederation College Diploma/Certificate Programs.
Specific	All specific pathways are set up for transfer students to Confederation College diploma programs. The majority of partnership agreements allow access to transfer students coming with a background in Business, Finance, or Administration. 1 specific pathway allows transfer students into certificate program in medical technology at Confederation College.

Pathways by Sending Institutions

The following table present information on current transfer pathways in Ontario institutions, juxtaposed against geographical data and 2013/2014 student-transfer flows from sending institutions in order to examine where strong connections exist.

The first column lists all sending institutions. “Sending Institution” holds dual meaning as either a sending partner, (in the form of established sending partnership agreements) and/or as a sending source of transfer students to the receiving institution.

The “Geographical Data” summarizes the regional location of the sending institution’s main campus, the distance (in km) and the travel duration (in hours) from the receiving institution. Branch campus locations have not been considered in this analysis, but will be included in the discussion. Reasonable commutable parameters were considered less than 80 km, or 1 hour commuting time; institutions that fell within this range are highlighted in blue.

The “Pathway Information” (taken from ONCAT/OnTransfer.ca) outlines the number of existing pathways agreements between the sending and receiving institutions. Also noted, is the nature of whether the agreements are “generic” or “specific”. Generic agreements note if the receiving institutions recognize programs from any area of study. Specific agreements note if the partnership agreement is program/discipline-specific.

The following table present information on current transfer pathways in Ontario institutions, juxtaposed against geographical data and 2013/2014 student-transfer flows from sending institutions in order to examine where strong connections exist.

The first column lists all sending institutions. “Sending Institution” holds dual meaning as either a sending partner, (in the form of established sending partnership agreements) and/or as a sending source of transfer students to the receiving institution.

The “Geographical Data” summarizes the regional location of the sending institution’s main campus, the distance (in km) and the travel duration (in hours) from the receiving institution. Branch campus locations have not been considered in this analysis, but will be included in the discussion. Reasonable commutable parameters were considered less than 80 km, or 1 hour commuting time; institutions that fell within this range are highlighted in blue.

The “Pathway Information” (taken from ONCAT/OnTransfer.ca) outlines the number of existing pathways agreements between the sending and receiving institutions. #### Pathway description:

Number	Pathways with generic sending programs	0	429
	Pathways with specific sending programs	429
Generic	No generic pathways are set up for transfer students with “any program background” to Georgian College Diploma
Specific	All specific pathways are set up for transfer students to Conestoga College diploma programs. ### Pathways by Sending Institutions

The following table present information on current transfer pathways in Ontario institutions, juxtaposed against geographical data and 2013/2014 student-transfer flows from sending institutions in order to examine where strong connections exist.

The first column lists all sending institutions. “Sending Institution” holds dual meaning as either a sending partner, (in the form of established sending partnership agreements) and/or as a sending source of transfer students to the receiving institution.

The “Geographical Data” summarizes the regional location of the sending institution’s main campus, the distance (in km) and the travel duration (in hours) from the receiving institution. Branch campus locations have not been considered in this analysis, but will be included in the discussion. Reasonable commutable parameters were considered less than 80 km, or 1 hour commuting time; institutions that fell within this range are highlighted in blue.

The “Pathway Information” (taken from ONCAT/OnTransfer.ca) outlines the number of existing pathways agreements between the sending and receiving institutions. Also noted, is the nature of whether the agreements are “generic” or “specific”. Generic agreements note if the receiving institutions recognize programs from any area of study. Specific agreements note if the partnership agreement is program/discipline-specific.

Pathways by Sending Institutions

The following table present information on current transfer pathways in Ontario institutions, juxtaposed against geographical data and 2013/2014 student-transfer flows from sending institutions in order to examine where strong connections exist.

The first column lists all sending institutions. “Sending Institution” holds dual meaning as either a sending partner, (in the form of established sending partnership agreements) and/or as a sending source of transfer students to the receiving institution.

The “Geographical Data” summarizes the regional location of the sending institution’s main campus, the distance (in km) and the travel duration (in hours) from the receiving institution. Branch campus locations have not been considered in this analysis, but will be included in the discussion. Reasonable commutable parameters were considered less than 80 km, or 1 hour commuting time; institutions that fell within this range are highlighted in blue.

The “Pathway Information” (taken from ONCAT/OnTransfer.ca) outlines the number of existing pathways agreements between the sending and receiving institutions. Also noted, is the nature of whether the agreements are “generic” or “specific”. Generic agreements note if the receiving institutions recognize programs from any area of study. Specific agreements note if the partnership agreement is program/discipline-specific.

Pathways by Sending Institutions

The following table present information on current transfer pathways in Ontario institutions, juxtaposed against geographical data and 2013/2014 student-transfer flows from sending institutions in order to examine where strong connections exist.

The first column lists all sending institutions. “Sending Institution” holds dual meaning as either a sending partner, (in the form of established sending partnership agreements) and/or as a sending source of transfer students to the receiving institution.

The “Geographical Data” summarizes the regional location of the sending institution’s main campus, the distance (in km) and the travel duration (in hours) from the receiving institution. Branch campus locations have not been considered in this analysis, but will be included in the discussion. Reasonable commutable parameters were considered less than 80 km, or 1 hour commuting time; institutions that fell within this range are highlighted in blue.

The “Pathway Information” (taken from ONCAT/OnTransfer.ca) outlines the number of existing pathways agreements between the sending and receiving institutions. Also noted, is the nature of whether the agreements are “generic” or “specific”. Generic agreements note if the receiving institutions recognize programs from any area of study. Specific agreements note if the partnership agreement is program/discipline-specific.

Pathways by Sending Institutions

The following table present information on current transfer pathways in Ontario institutions, juxtaposed against geographical data and 2013/2014 student-transfer flows from sending institutions in order to examine where strong connections exist.

The first column lists all sending institutions. “Sending Institution” holds dual meaning as either a sending partner, (in the form of established sending partnership agreements) and/or as a sending source of transfer students to the receiving institution.

The “Geographical Data” summarizes the regional location of the sending institution’s main campus, the distance (in km) and the travel duration (in hours) from the receiving institution. Branch campus locations have not been considered in this analysis, but will be included in the discussion. Reasonable commutable parameters were considered less than 80 km, or 1 hour commuting time; institutions that fell within this range are highlighted in blue.

The “Pathway Information” (taken from ONCAT/OnTransfer.ca) outlines the number of existing pathways agreements between the sending and receiving institutions. Also noted, is the nature of whether the agreements are “generic” or “specific”. Generic agreements note if the receiving institutions recognize programs from any area of study. Specific agreements note if the partnership agreement is program/discipline-specific.

Partnership description:

Number	43 partners

Geographical proximity	13 partners are within commutable range (equal to or less than 80 km).

Pathway description:

Number	Pathways with generic sending programs	128	1140
	Pathways with specific sending programs	1140
Generic	Generic pathways are established with 8 partners: Algoma University, Algonquin College, Brock University, Laurentian University, Nipissing University, University of Ottawa, Wilfred Laurier University, York University.
Specific	All specific pathways established for transfer students; saturation of transfer agreements allow access for transfer students coming with a background in “Business, Finance, Administration”

Pathways by Sending Institutions

The following table present information on current transfer pathways in Ontario institutions, juxtaposed against geographical data and 2013/2014 student-transfer flows from sending institutions in order to examine where strong connections exist.

The first column lists all sending institutions. “Sending Institution” holds dual meaning as either a sending partner, (in the form of established sending partnership agreements) and/or as a sending source of transfer students to the receiving institution.

The “Geographical Data” summarizes the regional location of the sending institution’s main campus, the distance (in km) and the travel duration (in hours) from the receiving institution. Branch campus locations have not been considered in this analysis, but will be included in the discussion. Reasonable commutable parameters were considered less than 80 km, or 1 hour commuting time; institutions that fell within this range are highlighted in blue.

The “Pathway Information” (taken from ONCAT/OnTransfer.ca) outlines the number of existing pathways agreements between the sending and receiving institutions. Also noted, is the nature of whether the agreements are “generic” or “specific”. Generic agreements note if the receiving institutions recognize programs from any area of study. Specific agreements note if the partnership agreement is program/discipline-specific.

Pathways by Sending Institutions

The following table present information on current transfer pathways in Ontario institutions, juxtaposed against geographical data and 2013/2014 student-transfer flows from sending institutions in order to examine where strong connections exist.

The first column lists all sending institutions. “Sending Institution” holds dual meaning as either a sending partner, (in the form of established sending partnership agreements) and/or as a sending source of transfer students to the receiving institution.

The “Geographical Data” summarizes the regional location of the sending institution’s main campus, the distance (in km) and the travel duration (in hours) from the receiving institution. Branch campus locations have not been considered in this analysis, but will be included in the discussion. Reasonable commutable parameters were considered less than 80 km, or 1 hour commuting time; institutions that fell within this range are highlighted in blue.

The “Pathway Information” (taken from ONCAT/OnTransfer.ca) outlines the number of existing pathways agreements between the sending and receiving institutions.
